Dental Market Analysis :

Most Productive countries:

Most productive countries with respect to number of dental publications, 2009 to 2019. Based on the count of the corresponding authors from each country for both single country publications (SCP) and multiple country publications (MCP)

Based on the count of articles published for each c ountry.

Present Landscape of the Indian Dental Sector:

India is all set to become the single largest country for dental products and materials. With over 5000 dental laboratories and over 297 dental institutes, the Indian Dental Market is vast indeed.

As of 2017, the overall market size of the Indian Dental market was approximated to be around $ 2 billion USD and is expected to grow at CGAR of 6.97% for the duration of 2016-21

The dental market in India is expected to grow at an unprecedented rate of 20-30% Y-O-Y (year on year,) with investment groups building multispecialty hospitals offering general dentistry and specialist treatments

The current dentist to population ration in urban area is 1:9000 and in rural areas, it is 1:200000. The value of dental equipment and laboratories market itself is about US$ 90 million annually

Growth Opportunities :

There are a number of reasons for the dental market boom in India. As India progresses towards becoming a fully developed nation, the oral care infrastructure is improving rapidly.

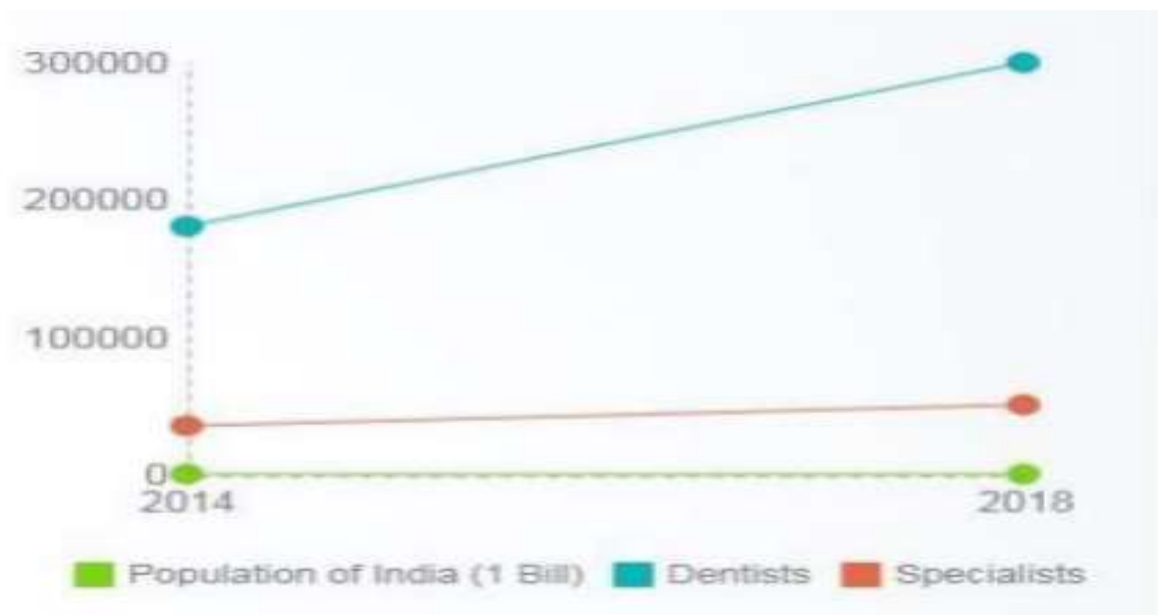

Several large multi-national players such as the Apollo Group, Wockhardt, and Fortis are setting up a chain of dental clinics to tap into this swiftly growing dental market.

Approximately 90% of the dentists currently work in and around major cities of India. As job opportunities in both the public and private sector are relatively less, most dentists set up their own private clinic. Every year approximately 12,000 to 15,000 new practices start in the country.

Statistics indicate that there is a greater demand than supply of dental technicians in India. Currently there are about 5000 dental laboratories yet only 32 colleges that offer diploma courses for the post of a dental technician.

Yet another reason for the market growth is the expanding multinational presence in the in the fast-growing dental market. KAVO G C, Ivoclar – Vivadent, Dentsply, 3M, Nobel Biocare, Mecktron, Sirona, Aceton, Ultradent, COLTENE, Voco, S S White, Shofu and others have set up offices in India.

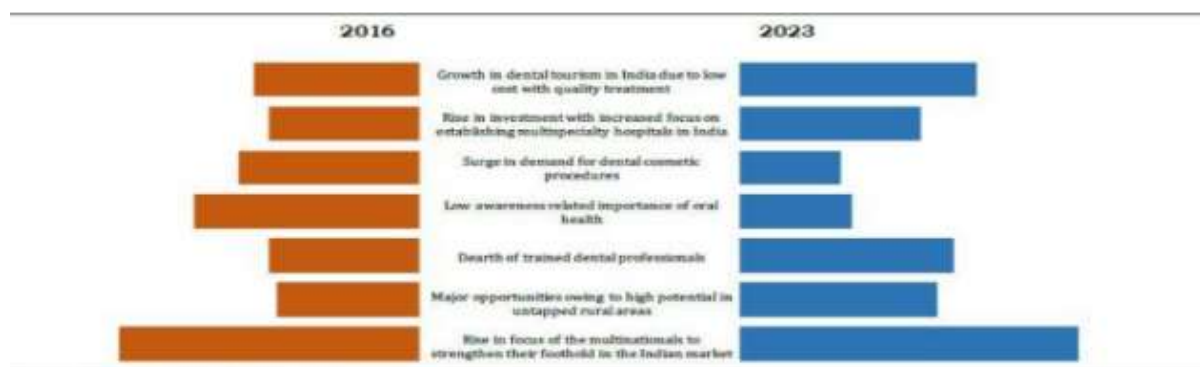

Other contributing factors include, but are not limited to :

- 1) Growing Healthcare Awareness
